"CLEVELAND'S COWAR DICE." Comments of the New York Press on

His St. Louis Letter. NEW YORK, July 8.-[Special Telegram to the BEE. |-Following are the editoiral comments of some of the New York papers on the letter of President Cleveland made public yesterday. The World says: "The president's chief excuse is that he cannot subject his high office, the dignity of which he must protect, to insult. Most American citizens will decline to view the matter from Mr. Cleveland's standpoint. The idea that it is necessary for a president of the United States to stay away from one of the chief cities in the country to which he had been invited in a marked manner by its citizens for fear of insult to his office is not one that will be seriously entertained."

"The president's conduct will be interpreted as cowardly. People rapidly lose respect for a chief magistrate who can be turned from his path by such insignificant, self-seeking men as these who will now exult over Mr. Cleveland. And it was not Grover Cleveland who was invited to St. Louis by an army of hospitable citizens, but the president of the United States. As president he would have been protected from insult. Cleveland does not seem to understand the spirit of the American people. Suppose Andrew Jackson while president had accepted an invitation to go somewhere, how many threats of insult would it have taken to deter him from his purpose?"

Insult would it have taken to deter him from his purpose?"

The Times says: "The dignified, patriotic letter of the president withdrawing his acceptance of the president withdrawing his acceptance of the invitation to visit St. Louis during the encampment there of the Grand Army of the Republic is calculated to make that organization ashamed of the confluct of some of its conspicuous members. While he speaks of the organization with the number tespect and refuses to believe that it is responsible for the unworthy utterances that have induced him to reconsider his intention of visiting St. Louis, it is to be feared that the entire incident will tend to lower the Grand Army in the esteem and respect of the country at large. It will not hurt the president, but there is danger that it will hurt an organization made up of veterans whom people have every reason to honor and every desire to honor."

The Tribune says: "It will be read with mingled feelings of amazement and contempt by friends and foes alike. The president has in truth made a bad matter in linitely worse by refusing to go to St. Louis and by offering the solveling excuse contained in this letter."

In an interview in the Times Carl

The Washington dispatch to the Tribune mays the president's withdrawal of acceptance is regarded by the Grand Army men in Washington generally as a happy deliverance. Powderly Vigorously Denounces Grain and Produce Manipulation. Рипаркарна, July 8.—[Special Telegram to the Вкк.]—General Master Workman Powderly, in the Journal of United Labor, pays his respects to grain and stock brokers in a vigorous manner. Referring to he recent corners in coffee and wheat, Mr. Powderly says: "The lesson taught our members by the experience of the past six weeks is to keep their eyes open and to keep them turned toward the produce exchanges if New York, Chicago and other large cities, and the moment the grain or produce gamder stacks the cards and announces that there is a scarcity in a certain article of food, and that prices go up in consequence, every member should resolve, and resolve out loud, that until the unhallowed hand of the specuator has been removed from the control of the article in question, not a pound nor an nunce more than can be avoided will be purphased. This may be regarded in the light of a boycott notice. That is exactly what I intend it for, and had I the power vested in me to make the order imperative I would price very member, so far as in him lies the power, to place an eternal boycott on every train and stock gambler in the United States and Canada." there is a scarcity in a certain article of food,

The report was presented to the meeting of the bricklayers' union to-night and unanimously bricklayers' union to-night and unanimously adopted. The master masons will doubtiess pass favorably upon it to morrow. It deplared that the main cause of the trouble between the contractors and employes was the fact that the organization of each endeavored to lay down arbitrary rules for the regulation of matters which should be regulated only by mutual action. A joint standing committee, to be elected annually, is therefore projected to settle vital questions and grievances. Walking delegates are virtually abolished, but foremen must still be union men, and the eight-hour day is conceded by the umpire, Judge Puley, as in accordance with the law and spirit of progress.

DR. CROSS FOUND NOT GUILTY.

After Lying In the Shadow of the Gallows He is At Last Triumphantly Acquitted-A History of the Case.

Found Not Guilty. RED OAK, la., July 8 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE. |-This morning brought to a conclusion the most celebrated criminal case that has been before the courts of lowa during the past five years. On the evening of September 24, 1883, Drs. A. B. McKune and E. D. Cross, two prominent physicians, met on First avenue, Council Bluffs, and an altercation ensued in which Dr. McKune was killed by Dr. Cross. A preliminary examination was had, and Dr. Cross was held to answer for murder without bail. The first trial was at Glenwood, Ia., in March, 1884. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged June 18, 1885. While in solitary confinement in Fort Madison waiting the day of execution his case was taken to the supreme court, and a new trial granted because of erroneous rul-a new trial granted because of erroneous rulings by the court that sentenced him. Thereupon the case was brought to Red Oak. Montgomery county, for another trial, and he was released from confinement by giving bail. He put in a plea of self-defense. The case was called up for trial here June 2, and turned over to the jury last night. They promptly handed in a verdict of not guilty this morning.

The case was most persistently prosecuted by Sapp & Pusey and Colonel Dailey, of Council Bluffs, and R. W. Beeson and C. E. Richards, of Red Oak, while the defense, as the verdict shows was most ably and efficiently represented by Judge A.V. Larimer, Hon. J.Y. Stone, Hon. A.R. Anderson, Hon. Smith McPherson and J. M. Junkin. The conduct of the defense devolved principally upon McPherson whose success in the manipulation of witnesses places him without a peer as a criminal lawyer, in the state. Stone's and Anderson's addresses to the jury sustained their reputations as being the most cloquent pleaders and advocates. The trial attracted large crowds to the court house, and the verdict of the jury is generally conceded just.

General Tuttle's Views. DES MOINES, Ia., July S .- General Tuttle, commander of the Grand Army of the Re; public for Iowa, who has been absent from the city several days returned this evening and was asked what he thought of Cleveland's refusal to visit the St. Louis encampment. He said: "Cleveland's back down is so complete that we don't feel like exulting, but it was the wisest and best thing he could do. I see he attempts to get sympathy by insinuating that threats of violence had been made against him. I can say that no threats of violence were ever made or even dreamed of. The old soldiers do not need to throw bricks in order to show their contempt. I have had letters by the bushel from all parts of the United States, and I believe that 99 per cent of the old soldiers were opposed to be the him serious them. having him review them at their encamp-ment. As to the suggestions from St. Louis that the citizens will treat the Grand Army of the Republic with ineivility I can say that the old soldiers ask no fayors of St. Louis and do not go there for that purpose. The Mormon War in South Carolina. CHARLESTON, S. C., July 8.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Mormon missionaries have been at work in the upper portion of this state for several years, where some of the whites are very ignorant and illiterate, and have made many converts. Last Sunday as a Methodist minister, Rev. William Wright, was leaving the church building used in turn by various denominations he was assailed in a violent manner by a Mormon elder, Joseph Thorp, who was soon surrounded by his new converts and sympathizers in such numbers that the situation looked alarming. Knives were drawn and flourished freely, but no blows were passed. On Tuesday the sheriff arrested Thorp and five ot his converts, who were locked up on the charge of conspiracy to disturb a religious meeting. This is thought to be only the beginning of a religious war. The Mormon converts threaten to rescue the prisoners, while a number of other religious denominations threaten to run the Mormons out of the country. a violent manner by a Mormon elder, Joseph Free TextsBooks. BURLINGTON, Vt., July 8.—To-day was the last day of the meeting of the American Institute of Instruction. Thomas Emerson, of Newton, Mass., read a paper on "Free Text Books." There are twenty states that have not yet made any provision for free text books, even for indigent children; in seven others there are laws allowing cities and towns at their option to furnish free text books; in Massachusetts only is there a compulsory law. Emerson showed the success that had attended the practical working cess that had attended the practical working of the system in the several states in which it was in operation. Resolutions were adopted favoring federal aid to education against trades teaching in the public schools and expressing satisfaction with the growth of public sentiment in behalf of higher professional training of school teachers. Charged With a Big Swindle. SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.-The Chronicle devotes two pages to letters and affidavits found among the papers of the late Abner L. Blake, formerly a deputy collector at Port Townsend, W. T., who died under mysterious circumstances in Chicago last May, while on his way to Washington. The article shows that Blake held the opinion that cle shows that Blake held the opinion that H. T. Beecher, a son of Henry Ward Beecher, and formerly collector at Port Townsend, had withheld from an informer the amount due him growing out of a large seizure of opium made. It will be remembered, last year, it was shown that $16,000 should have been paid the informer instead of which a "dummy" was paid $130. These and many other charges were made by Blake to the officials at Washington and, no attention being paid, he started east with the documents in his possession. Several serious attention being paid, he started east with the documents in his possession. Several serious charges are made against Beecher in the affidavits, such as the misuse of government money, etc. A letter from the informer, George Rouse, charges that Blake was induced to stay over in Chicago, and while there met with foul play, to prevent the proposed exposure.

there met with foul play, to prevent the proposed exposure.

CHICAGO, July S.—A. L. Blake, whose supposed murder under sensational circumstances is mentioned in to-night's Associated press dispatches from San Francisco, was found on the morning of May 20 at the union depot in this city in an unconscious condition. He was removed to the police station and afterward to the insane department of the county jall. The physician who examined him said he was suffering from concussion of the brain or narcotic poisoning. The man never fully rallied and finally died at the county hospital, whence he was removed when the county physician had examined him. Papers on his person indicated that he was on his way east to prefer charges against Collector Beecher. But little or no attention was paid to the matter at the time.

SOMETHING OF A CHESTNUT. No Fear That Powderly Will Hesign

His Office. New YORK, July 8.—|Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Powderly's reported announcement that he will resign his office of general master workman of the Knights of Labor at the next meeting of the general assembly in October, instead of waiting until 1888, when his term expires, has a familiar sound to the knights. It is not regarded seriously. John Morrison, master workman of the carpet workers expelled, district 126, said yesterday: "This resignation of General Master Workman Powderly is a time-honored, gray-haired, gray-bearded chestnut. One of the first things I heard when I came into the order was that Powderly was going to resign.

and he has been resigning upon every critical juncture since."

John Swinton said: "As long as I can remumber Powderly has been resigning. The trouble is the job is too big for him, and every year he is made to feel it more and more. The vast organization of the Knights of Lebor is going to pieces. But the labor every year he is made to feel it more and more. The yast organization of the Knights of Labor is going to pieces. But the labor movement is not dependent upon any one man or two men. It will go on without Powderly or George, and the wrongs workingmen suffer will be remedied, no matter whether the present leaders go by the board or not." Mr. Swinton thought that S. M. Wheat, of Iowa, was a good man for l'owderly's shoes, but there seems to be some technical objection to him. He has not been elected a delegate of the general assembly heretofore.

A Threatened Craze. New York Commercial Advertiser: It must be hoped that the success of Mr. T. S. Baldwir, professor of ballooning, will not lead to a new craze rather more dangerous than bridge jumping. At Quincy, Illinois, Mr. Baldwin made the fourth of July even more glorious than it naturally was, by leaping from a balloon a mile high in the air and landing safe and sound on the eath. This feat he accomplished through means of a silken parachute eighteen feet in di-ameter. For the first 200 feet he fell like the sweet lark high poised in air when he hears the note of his mate in her hest he hears the note of his mate in her hest in the grass, folds wing and drops at once into her nest. It was lucky for him that his big umbrella bethought herself in time that he was not a lark, and so unfolded her wings. Had it not been for this happy thought on the part of his umbrella, Mr. Baldwin would have fallen to rise no more and hi body would either have been more and hi body would either have been scattered over a number of acres proportionate to his avoirdupois, or it would have been driven so far into the earth that his friends could never have extri-

The reporter who describes Mr. Bald-The reporter who describes Mr. Baldwin's descent says that "the aeronat and his strange apparatus floated steadily down like a bird. It was a grand and beautiful sight." This is a reporter's gloss for what was merely an odd spectacle, but the fact that a reporter actually did describe the flight as both grand and beautiful, renders it tolerably certain that this summer will witness a certain that this summer will witness a host of ambitious aeronauts dropping from balloons like caterpillars from the trees in Central park. Niagara, with its unequaled facilities for shooting rap-ids in peculiarly shaped barrels, will be neglected by the adventurous and bridges no matter what their height, will be deno matter what their height, will be deserted by their appropriate lunatics.
Nothing will satisfy the cravings of ambition but a leap from a balloon at least a mile up in the air. No valuable members of society will be lost through the coming craze, except those great numbers upon whose heads, as they walk below, the aeronauts whose parachutes fail to work will fall with crushing force and grind to powder. On behalf of people who are content with the lowly walks of life, and do not care to have living meteors shoot down on them from beyond the clouds, we call a halt before the upward and downward procession gets fully under way.

OMAHA'S CHIEF OF POLICE.

The Good Work He and His Assistants Ara Doing.

A CITY HOSPITAL IS NEEDED.

The City Physician Talks Briefly Upon the Subject-A Strike at an End - Geheral News of the City.

Doing Good Work. At the time of the attack upon Chief of Police Seavey, that officer and also the board of police commissioners sent communications to various persons in California inquiring into the record of the chief. The outrageous attacks in the Omaha papers whose editors were disappointed in not being appointed on the commission and having their heeler appointed chief, of course reached that portion of the Golden state in which Seavey had lived. The result is that letters are now being received by both the chief and the commission testifying to Seavey's good standing when a citizen of Santa Barbara. Some of these epistles are in answer to inquiries, and a goodly number are unsolicited. As fast as the chief receives replies to his communications or unsolicited letters, he turns them over to the police commissioners. Two of these epistles were received yesterday, one in answer to a communication of the chief and the other a voluntary letter from the district attorney of Santa Barbara. Both are strong testimonials of Chief Seavey's character as a citizen and a public offi-cer. Now that the heat of the desperate onslaught on Seavey is at an end, and the schemers have been exposed, there is a growing belief that the sensational story first printed in an obscure California sheet was conceived in this city, and is but the diabolical effort of disreputable plotters to further their own ends by blackening the reputation of Seavey. But the work of the police department since the appointment of Seavey is sufficient refutation of the bold-faced accusations of inefficiency which the marning papers have continued.

which the morning papers have continually voiced. Since Seavey has been chief of police there has been no more effective work than he has accomplished. This, too, in the teeth of the most bitter warfare by the city council upon his department and the most strenuous efforts to cripple that protective arm of the city government. Some of the most notorious crooks in the country have been "turned up" under the short administration of Scavey. The arrest of the gang who planned the Missouri Pacific train robbery is an instance which alone proves Seavey's efficiency as the head of the police department. Under his direction the best men of the old force have been domg excellent work, and to Seavey, Captains McDonald and Cormick, Sergeant Mostyn and Detective Harrigan belongs the credit of the capture of the would be train robbers.

These desperados, by the way, are ure of the would-be train robbers.

These desperados, by the way, are again at liberty. The leader, Lew Foley, is a notorious "strong-arm" man. He served a seven-year term in the Illinois penitentiary at Joliet for highway robbery. He first came into notoriety in this city by his connection with the Dukes robbery several years ago. Shortly thereafter he disappeared and only returned a few months ago. His partner, Eddy Meagher, alias Harrigan, is a general crook, house oreaking and highway robbery being his special lay. He, together with the others, is given a very bad name by by the police of Des Moines and other cities. Tom Cavanaugh, whose alias is cities. Tom Cavanaugh, whose alias is also Harrigan, is also a very bad crook, whose especial work is highway robbery. He is off a piece with the others. George Wilson, the fourth, is perhaps the smoothest of the quartette. He is an allwork. These four are the principal members of a gang of hard crooks who have been doing most of the work hereabouts. Another member of the gang was arrested and ordered out of town—Dick Gilhausen alias Frank Howard, who hails from Peoria, Ill., and who has served several

It is a fact worthy of note that since have been no highway robberies in the city, when previously the cases of this sort averaged one nightly. It is thought that the crowd, now released from jail, have given Omaha the cold shake, and it is well for them that they have. That they have been blocked here is due to the efficiency of the heads of the police department.

AT WORK AGAIN.

The Bricklayers' Tenders Accept the Masters' Terms. The strike of the bricklayers' and plasters' tenders was brought to a termination yesterday afternoon. A number of the union men for the last few days have evinced a desire to return to work, and at the meeting of the union held at Cunningham hall yesterday afternoon a resolution was adopted to accept the masters' offer. As matters now stand the mortar men will receive $2.25 per day and the hod carriers $2,00 per day. A large number of the men returned to work yesterday afternoon, and no doubt building operations will be in full swing all through the city this morning. It is understood that the contractors will not dismiss the non-union men who have been helping them out during the strike and consequently a out during the strike, and consequently a number of the strikers will be unable to find employment:

STATEMENT FROM CHAIRMAN HOLDEN.
OMAHA, Neb., July 8.—To the Editor of the Bee: In the Omaha Herald of this date appeared a report made by one of the reportorial corps of that paper concerning the condition of the painters' strike which, in most particulars, was untrue, did injustice to the strikers and true, did injustice to the strikers and misrepresented the undersigned. The Herald reporter said the painters' strike was virtually dead, which is untrue. The painters held the largest meeting last night they have held since the strike was ordered, and all present were determined and enthusiastic. There is no dissatisfaction among the union painters worth mentioning. A few have been "kicking" and making a noise, but this has been confined principally to those who could not hold a job if they had one. There are no painters with families on the point of starvation, as all have been provided for up to this date, and we confidently for up to this date, and we confidently expect to be able to care for all who are Further on in his report the Herald reporter says that an invasigation brought out the fact that negotiations were not being made with the contractors, as a body. However, the Herald reporter has very poor eyes and cannot see well and is not competent to judge of the direction of negotiations. Organized labor will remember the Hon. John A. McShane if he continues

A CITY HOSPITAL NEEDED. An Increasing Need For Such an Institution.

"Now you can see the need there is for a city hospital," said City Physician Ralph as he ministered to the wants of a very sick and destitute man in one of the cells of the Central station last night. The man, friendless and ill from an attack of lung fever which developed consumptive tendencies, had been taken up off the streets by the police and sent to the station because there was no place else to convey him. He was made as comfortable as possible and will be sent to the poor farm to-day. "Since I have been city physician," continued Dr. Ralph, "I have had a half a dozen such cases. Three or four of them were able to pay their expenses. Like this man here they needed care and attention from skilled nurses, and a hospital is the place for them. This is a city of $0,000 inhabitants and hasn't a place for the sick or the injured. St. Joseph's and the Child's hospital, private institutions, are child's hospital, private institutions, are crowded. Such cases must go to the county poor farm. In Minneapolis, a city of about 175,000 people, there are a number of hospitals, A city hospital is greatly needed here. Some sort of temporary quarters should be provided. I mentioned the matter in conversation with a councilman the other day and he said he would bring the subject before that body. I think action cannot be taken any too soon."

Affairs of the Army. Second Lieutenant Charles G. Dwyer, I wenty-first infantry, has been detailed for duty on general recruiting service for the department of the Platte, at Fort Bridger, Wyo., in place of Second Lieutenant Edgar Hubert, Eighth infantry, who has been relieved.

Captain William S. Starring, ordnance department, chief ordnance office, deofficer of the Cheyenne ordnance depot has been relieved from duty in this de-partment and is succeeded by First Lieutenant Charles St. J. Chubb, Seventeenth infantry.

Artificer George J. La Roe, Company H, Twenty-first infantry, now at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., and who is on furlough without means to join his station, has been furnished transportation to Carter station, Wyo.

A Very Bad Man.

Charles Wilson was arrested last evening for enticing a little girl into a lumber yard at the foot of Douglas street. The watchman, Mulhall, arrested Wilson and locked him up at Central station. The evidence does not tend to show that Wilson assaulted the child—a twelve-year-old girl named Roach, who lives on the bottoms. However, he is a very bad character. Wilson is the man who concealed the burglars' tools under the sidewalk on Howard and Eleventh streets some time ago, and has just finished a term in the county jail. The police give him a bad name.

A new leader will be on hand to-night.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, bolls, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B.

"Oh, HAGAN'S

is exquisitely lovely, "said Miss Brown to her friends, as she entered the drawing room, after taking a long, hot, fatiguing drive over a sandy, dusty road. "It is so Purc. Cleanly and Refreshing. I always have it with me, and as "its a Harmiess Liquid, I can use it in a moment and set such lustant relief from to a moment and get such instant relief from the Redness, Roughness, Sallowness, Tan, Freckles and Horrid Old Skiz Blemishes, caused by a Hot Sun and Dry, Harsh Winds." Ladies,

MAGNOLIA BALM is for Pace, Neck, Arms and Hands. It can't be Detected. TRY IT!
